Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, City Police Commissioner Dr. A Subramanyeshwara Rao said that the city has no exclusive Commando Force. The existing commandoes get mixed with other forces and they are deployed to handle various minor or major situations including VVIP visits. "We want to set up an exclusive and highly-efficient core team of 25 members who are daredevils," he said.

Very soon, the State government is sanctioning 300 Policemen to Mysuru and we will pick potential commandoes from them. This apart, we will look into the existing commandoes and also constables from city Police stations who are fit for the exercise. "We will first select 60 men and from them, we will choose 25," Rao said.

Selection will be based on physique, qualification, sharp traits and interests and personality of candidates. Their training will be gruelling and they will not mix with other Police forces. "They will have separate uniforms will sport advanced machine guns. They will be away from public and will be called in cases of acute emergency situations like terror attacks, drug emergencies, and communally-sensitive incidents," he said.

First wife scuttles BSF Jawan's fourth wedding !

Mysuru, Oct. 23 - This serving BSF Jawan married thrice without settling the divorce case with his first wife and was caught red-handed when he was about to marry for the fourth time yesterday. Learning about his fourth marriage, the Jawan's first wife stormed into the marriage venue and created a ruckus, forcing the groom to scurry for cover.

With the Police entering the scene, the marriage was abandoned and the guests had to leave the venue though they had an elaborate lunch that was prepared for the wedding.

The incident occurred yesterday at the Yoganarasimhaswamy Temple at Vijayanagar First Stage and the BSF Jawan has been identified as 36-year-old Shivananju. According to the Vijayanagar Police, Shivananju hails from Saligrama Village near K.R. Nagar and had married Varalakshmi on May 10, 2007.

Shivananju Varalakshmi

Varalakshmi became pregnant and Shivananju left her at her parents' house and had deserted her due to some differences between them. He came back only after two years and both the families tried for a compromise formula that did not work. In 2009, Varalakshmi filed a dowry harassment case against Shivananju demanding justice and also maintenance.

Meanwhile, Shivananju married one Shwetha from Saligrama Village though he has a daughter from Varalakshmi and later he entered into wedlock with Asharani of Kanagalu village.

In her complaint to the Police, Varalakshmi alleged that neither did Shivananju lead a decent life with her nor with his other two wives. Even the divorce and the dowry harassment cases were pending before the courts, she said.

Mysuru: Hope, Despair, Hope

The city's literati, given to the habit of writing in their preferred columns of this daily, have been expressing a hope on Mysuru not going the Bengaluru way. The State's capital, portrayed in glorious terms as the Garden City, Asia's Fastest Growing City, and so on in the years not too long ago has fallen into bad times, being chosen as an example to be avoided like plague as it were by any expanding (growing?) city, particularly our own Mysuru, hosting nearly a million (10 lakh) residents in three main categories. Firstly, the elders who have lived in the city savouring its many well-marked features, particularly its quietude and simplicity of life. Secondly, the current generation with a mix of sections chasing and enjoying the features which are their own creation (fast foods, fast life and everything fast). Thirdly, the future generation getting groomed to live in a digital and highly-wired world.

The first category of Mysureans mentioned above, lost in nostalgia of the years they have spent in the city, have despaired to a point of trauma. The second category, barring exceptions, cannot hide their merry conduct in the changing society. The third category has to stay in the crucible of change for a little longer. All categories are entitled to their perception of change.

Hearing from any eloquent and knowledgeable elderly Mysurean about the myriad components of life in the years gone by, one can make a long list of those components totally devoid of ostentation at the family level. Most of those components have either vanished or beyond the reach of most people. The manner of celebrating festivals, with high-decibel public shows knocking out quietly displayed devotion takes the cake among the changes. Giving credit to the former rulers of the erstwhile princely State of Mysore for welcoming non-Mysureans to colonise in the city is well-taken. But, the fallout of that generosity, over years is there for all to experience.

In sum, returning to the point made at the beginning of this column, hoping for Mysuru not to lose its character of yesteryears has decidedly ended in despair. The poet's line that old order changeth yielding place to new may never lose its meaning. The next generation of Mysureans, mercifully, are spared both hope (?) and despair(!).

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Bengaluru, our version of the Silicon Valley, is sinking into geriatric degeneration. It is projected to become unlivable in ten years, unless the present trends are reversed. And ten years is like a leisurely wink on the macro-scale of time! Some of the reports we have read and the visuals we have seen of the plight of this Garden City are worrisome. Recall Bellandur Lake catching fire for the third time in February 2017. Water and fire are elemental incompatibles. Water is supposed to douse fire, not burn like petroleum! But how can water not catch fire when the building mafia bombs the lake with debris? So where are we, then? Nearly 20 percent of the schoolgoing children in Bengaluru fare poorly in lung screening tests. That's, if you don't mind, an epidemic! And Bengaluru is still preferred by IT-driven youths and age-shriveled pensioners. — Valson Thampu in The New Indian Express.

New York: South Korean artist Young-Sung Kim has a very special talent, he can paint photographs. That may sound like a gross exaggeration, but just take a look at what he's able produce with a paintbrush, some acrylic and mountains of talent and patience.

The old saying, 'I'll believe it when I see it,' doesn't really apply to Youn-Sung Kim's art. You can stare at his incredibly detailed painting for hours and still not able to make-out the difference between high-resolution digital photographs. Kim is so good at what he does.

The 43-year-old artist, who was born in Seoul, South Korea, but currently lives in New York, recently said that almost everyone who's seen his paintings has, at one point, asked him if he just prints photos on the canvas. But he takes everything as compliment.

VOICE OF THE READER

Let the bend remain near Jaladarshini !

Sir,

Our forefathers who built tanks (Lakes) had a clear idea of the topography of the land around it and designed their villages in such a way that rain water or any water would flow into the Lake. The channels or canals that carried the rain water into the Lake were not filled with water all through the year, but they were carefully looked after in such a way that free passage of water when needed was never hindered by any kind of blocks.

When the tanks were filled to the brim, they even provided additional space adjoining the Lake, again left deliberately empty, so that excess water would overflow into this space and dry out in course of time. These lands also helped in replenishing the ground water in the surrounding places.

Kukkarahalli Lake that I saw as a young boy was so huge; the water would come up to the western edge of Kalamandira. There was no compound along the Hunsur road and not many trees in the Lake area. One could have a wonderful view of the water from 'Jaladarshini' or 'Jalasannidhi.'

Today many may wonder why the 'Jaladarshini' Guest House is so named. I remember seeing huge waves in the Lake waters whenever we went there to immerse Ganesha idols during Gowri-Ganesha festivals. Some years ago, the walking path was put in place on the northern side parallel to Hunsur road thereby cutting off water from spreading all the way up to Hunsur road. Land on the other side of Hunsur road adjoining Valmiki road, was meant to be a place for holding excess water when the Lake was filled to the brim and overflowed as I mentioned above. I have seen many times, water spread over in that space.

A few years ago, a petrol bunk came at a corner of that space in spite of loud outcry by many enlightened people at that time. Now, all hell has broken loose. A college, hostel, marriage hall, a Bhavan, a road, all have come up, built by people, totally unmindful of what they have done. The result was there for everyone to see when rains came and Paduvarahalli was flooded.

Now the road-straightening drama is about to begin no matter how many protests happen. I see a more sinister design of land-grabbing in the guise of avoiding deaths due to accidents and if this is not done hurriedly (read before the elections), the fruits might be eaten by someone else later. There are very eminent town planners and engineers amongst us but no one seems to have approached them for advice. Some ulterior motives definitely seem to be the driving force in hurriedly undertaking this project costing Rs.12 crore.

When one of those fatal accidents happened at the bend in the past, I remember H.R. Bapu Sathyanarayana mentioning the fault in the design of the road that takes a sudden bend to the right and downwards with no proper corrective measures done in the road itself. To me it appears a sensible point. This correction, if done, may stop deaths due to bad design of the road. But this will be more than offset by the additional speed the drivers tend to go at and die due to a good road!

A simple remedy is to install barricades or humps to curb the speed and let Mysureans have their beautiful road untouched. Who can do the trick of telling this to the powers that be in the Government?

IMA State President urges CM to drop Health Minister for unsavoury remarks

Mysuru, Oct. 23 (RKB&BCT)- The Indian Medical Association (IMA) State Unit President Dr. H.N. Ravindra lambasted Health Minister Ramesh Kumar for levelling corruption charges against him and comparing doctors to 'pick-pockets' and 'barbers.'

"Doctors attached to the IMA will quit their profession if the Minister continues to speak disrespectfully about doctors and the State Government doesn't drop the process of amending the Karnataka Private Medical Establishments (KPME) Act," he said. Ravindra, who is also a Congress party leader, told reporters at Pathrakarthara Bhavan here yesterday that the Minister had no right to call him corrupt.

Ramesh Kumar Dr. Ravindra

"The Minister has been making statements which are in bad taste. He is an intellectual and honest man and even though I am not bothered about his allegations against me, I take offence to him defaming the medical fraternity by comparing doctors to pick-pockets and barbers," the IMA Chief said.

"He is not only insulting the medical profession but he is also insulting barbers. There are a few black sheep in the medical fraternity but generalising all doctors is unfair. Ramesh Kumar doesn't deserve to be a Minister. If CM Siddharamaiah doesn't remove him, 80 per cent of the doctors in the State will quit the profession," he said.

On the plans of the Government to amend the KPME Act 2007, Ravindra said that doctors have to perform their duties under constant fear and threat. "Doctors will be scared to serve if the Government says they will be imprisoned if patients are unhappy. It is harsh and unreasonable. Doctors cannot be treated as criminals. It shows double standards," he observed.

Some people have a perception that doctors are rich and they roam in luxurious cars, he said, adding that these people don't know that doctors are paying EMI for these cars, Dr. Ravindra added.

Dhruvanarayan, former MLC Thontadarya, former MLA S. Balaraj and others look on.

Mysuru, Oct. 23(SBD&DM)- Renowned Folk scholar Dr. Go.Ru Channabasappa has said that there should be no cheap writings that divide the people under the pretext of creating awareness among the people.

He was delivering the felicitation address at a programme organised to felicitate writer Prof. Maleyur Guruswamy on his 70th birthday at Kalamandira here on Sunday.

Pointing out that just as the society respects the writers, it is the responsibility of the littérateurs to reciprocate the same to the society by coming up with good literary works, Channabasappa regretted the tendency to divide the society in the name of creating awareness.

Noting that Prof. Maleyur Guruswamy never attempted to please anyone, he said that Guruswamy's works always aimed at the welfare of society.

Stating that Guruswamy has given out his best in all forms of literature, he said that Guruswamy has dedicated his entire life to the literary world.

Emphasising on the need for publishing historical encyclopaedia of every village in the State, Channabasappa said such encyclopaedias will help the students and researchers a lot.

He urged the Kannada Sahitya Parishat, Sahitya Academy and Universities to come up with an appropriate plan for publishing an encyclopaedia covering all the villages of the State.

Prof. Maleyur Guruswamy couple were felicitated.

Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji, Kanakagiri Jain Kshetra Seer Bhuvanakeerthi Bhattaraka Swamiji, Bebi Mutt Seer Trinetra Mahanta Shivayogi Swamiji graced the occasion.

Later taking part in an interaction, Prof. Maleyur Guruswamy said that District in-Charge Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa had advised him not to enter politics for any reason.

Recalling that he had got an opportunity to contest against M. Mahadev (Benki Mahadev) from Nanjangud on a Samata Party ticket, Prof. Guruswamy said that Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa after coming to know of this, explained him about the challenges in the political world and advised him against entering politics.

Maintaining that he is not binded by religion, Prof. Guruswamy said there were no photos of any Gods in his house and his only possession was the 'Paduka' of Sri Shivaratri Rajendra Swamiji.

Prof. Champa inaugurates programme

Earlier in the day, renowned littérateur Dr. Chandrashekar Patil (Champa), who has been designated to chair the 83rd Akhila Bharath Kannada Sahitya Sammelana inaugurated the programme.

Speaking on the occasion, Prof. Champa said that equality, humanity and creativity is left ideology and Prof. Maleyur Guruswamy had all these qualities to be termed as a leftist.

Expressing concern over politics of today, Champa said what was urgently needed now was politics of inclusiveness and Basava Dharma always stood for social inclusiveness. He further said that it was necessary for everyone to join hands to find solutions for the complex situation that the society was facing today.

Prof. Champa

Writer Chinnaswamy Vaddagere in his keynote address, said that Prof. Maleyur Guruswamy can be termed as a leftist as he followed left ideology in his public life.

Recalling Prof. Guruswamy's growth as a writer, Champa said that Guruswamy was a columnist in 'Sankramana' paper. Highlighting Prof. Guruswamy's association with Kannada Sahitya Parishat, Champa noted that Kannada Literary meets have come up with the right messages to the society in the last ten years.

MLA Vasu who released a book titled 'Maleyuru Guruswamy Baduku-Baraha,' authored by Dr. Mahadevaswamy Heggothara, said that Prof. Guruswamy has groomed many individuals to become writers and has a large following. Vasu recalled that Prof. Guruswamy had dedicated his work titled 'Kapile Haridalu Kadalige' to a pourakarmika woman, which itself explains his concern for the lower strata of the society.

Sugar and Small Scale Industries Minister Dr. Geetha Mahadevaprasad presided. Hosamutt Seer Chidananda Swamiji, Vatal Mutt Seer Siddalinga Shivacharya Swamiji graced the occasion. Prof. Maleyur Guruswamy, felicitation committee office-bearers Helavarahundi Siddappa, M. Chandrashekar and others were present.

Mysuru's human chain speaks

By S.G. Vombatkere

Mysuru is special in many ways, and this may be seen in many fields. One such was on display on Sunday, 22nd October morning, when nearly 1,000 people from all walks of life and ages ranging from a 3-year-old girl to an 88-year-young man, gathered at Kalamandira to form a silent "human chain" along the road without obstructing traffic.

The reason for the demonstration was to protect over 100 trees on Hunsur Road near Jaladarshini Guest House, from the ill-conceived project of straightening and widening 450-metres length of the road, suddenly announced on 11th October for immediate implementation.

This was a peaceful people's demonstration to simultaneously protect Mysuru's heritage and protest against the Rs.12-crore project supposedly intended to solve the problem of traffic accidents occurring because of the road curve near Jaladarshini.

This gathering was initiated and sponsored by many voluntary organisations like Mysore Grahakara Parishat (MGP), Kukkarahalli Kere Ulisi Samithi, CFTRI Association, Green Mysuru, Let's Do It Mysuru, Swaccha Mysuru, Namma Mysuru, Wild Mysuru, Samarpana Foundation, Clean Mysuru Foundation, Mysuru Meme, People Tree, Breakthrough, Lucky School Group, etc., but many people also came when they read about the human chain from Star of Mysore.

The peacefulness of the "human chain" demonstration belied the very strong message that it sent to the Government of Karnataka (GoK) that the project is an utter waste of money, because the reason for accidents is not the curve in the road but the over-speeding of vehicles in that stretch of road. By enforcing the mandated speed limit (40-kmph according to the traffic road sign near Jaladarshini Gate) through effective Policing and also by construction of speed-breakers, accidents can and will be prevented. This was even stated by none other than Mysuru City Assistant Commissioner of Police (ACP), in letter No.samvi/cc/69/2015 dated 16.5.2015 addressed to AEE National Highways Mysuru Division, Mysuru, when sending statistics of fatal and non-fatal accidents in this stretch of road near Jaladarshini, as follows: "Ee rasteyalli vahanagalu vegavagi sancharisi rasthe apaghatagalu sambhavisuthhirutthade."

The peacefulness of the "human chain" demonstration belied the very strong message that it sent to the Government of Karnataka (GoK) that the Project is an utter waste of money, because the reason for accidents is not the curve in the road but the over-speeding of vehicles in that stretch of road. By enforcing the mandated speed limit (40-kmph according to the traffic road sign near Jaladarshini Gate) through effective Policing and also by construction of speed-breakers, accidents can and will be prevented. This was even stated by none other than Mysuru City Assistant Commissioner of Police (ACP), in his letter dated 16.5.2015 to the Assistant Executive Engineer (AEE), National Highways, Mysuru Division, when sending statistics of fatal and non-fatal accidents on this stretch of road near Jaladarshini, as follows: "Ee rasteyalli vahanagalu vegavagi sancharisi rasthe apaghatagalu sambhavisuthhirutthade."

The human chain participants carried and displayed a variety of posters, but perhaps the most innovative posters were: "Cut speed, not trees" and "Save trees, not traffic violators." The 3-year-old girl wore a poster which read: "Namma peeligegagi parisara ulisi," and a senior journalist participating as a citizen humorously quipped that what needed straightening was not the road but the minds of the people who proposed the project.

MGP has written to the CM, PWD Minister (also Mysuru District In-Charge Minister), Member of Lok Sabha, MLA, Deputy Commissioner, Mysuru, AEE National Highways, and DCF Mysuru, requesting that the project work should not be started — especially trees not be harmed — and that the project engineering staff should be directed to very urgently call a meeting under the auspices of Mysuru DC, to discuss the project proposal with senior, experienced road engineers who have technically reviewed the Project.

The coming days will see how GoK responds to the people who have peacefully come on to the streets with no motive other than to save Mysuru's heritage and save public money for more important works, instead of wasting it on a project which is based upon wrong technical advice. Public money would be far more effectively spent on regular road maintenance by filling of potholes and road cuts, for constructing effective drains on all roads to prevent rainwater flowing on the road surface and damaging it, and for construction of usable pedestrian footpaths so that people are safe when they walk and also free vehicle drivers from worry of knocking down a pedestrian. These works are absolutely essential according to best practices for urban roads. It is the duty of government engineers to provide such sound technical advice to the administrative authorities.

Similarly, ill-conceived projects in the past had to be cancelled after people peacefully gathered to object to them because of violating Mysuru's environmental and built heritage, or actually inconveniencing people.

Two such projects of special note are, planning of the Outer Ring Road (ORR), which was to be constructed through the centre of Lingambudhi Kere and cause an environmental disaster (the ORR was re-aligned), and the project to provide a canopy and hand railings etc., for the heritage steps leading to Chamundeshwari temple on Chamundi Hill, which would have seriously inconvenienced pilgrims and daily devotees as well as exercise enthusiasts (the project was cancelled).

These examples are mentioned to demonstrate that the peaceful, non-political power of Mysuru's people has been effective in the past, and also that GoK is reasonable and amenable to listen to, understand and respect the concerns and wishes of Mysuru's primary stakeholders.

Pillion seat on new 100 cc two-wheelers to be banned

Bengaluru, Oct. 23-The State Government has decided to ban the pillion seat on 100 cc two-wheelers. The Government has urged the two-wheeler manufacturers not to include the pillion seat on two-wheelers of 100 cc and less. However, the new directive is applicable only to new two-wheelers and not to the old ones already on roads.

Based on a recent High Court order, the Government has written to the officers of all Regional Transport Offices (RTOs) directing them not to register any 100 cc two-wheeler with pillion seats.

According to Karnataka Motor Vehicles Rules 1989, two-wheelers with an engine capacity of 100 cc and less are not allowed to have pillion seats. "However, the two-wheeler manufacturers are not following this rule," said a RTO official.

Sea of people at Dasara Exhibition Grounds

Smiles return on stall owners faces

Parking lot at Doddakere Maidan opposite Dasara Exhibition grounds packed with cars last evening. Picture right shows the huge traffic on Bengaluru-Nilgiri Road near Expo grounds.

Mysuru, Oct. 23 (YDS&NNN)- The serial holidays and long weekends for the year has come to a close with the last of them ending yesterday.

The extended Deepavali holidays like the Dasara holidays saw a huge rush at many of the tourist spots in the city for the last four to five days and the Dasara Exhibition was no exception with a sea of people thronging the expo yesterday.

The stall owners, who wore a dejected look following heavy rains and water logging on the sprawling Dasara Exhibition grounds, wore huge smiles as the footfalls surged and there was hardly any moving space with shops and amusement areas jammed with people of all ages and sizes.

Even as the crowd to the Dasara Exhibition increased yesterday being a Sunday, there was huge traffic jam on Bengaluru-Nilgiri Road near the Eastern Gate of the Mysore Palace.

The rush to the Exhibition could be gauged with the car parking lot on Doddakere Maidan jammed with hundreds of cars and two-wheelers. As usual, the eatery stalls in the Exhibition witnessed the maximum number of people with tourists and the locals with their families enjoying a Sunday outing.

The foodies delights included jolada rotti, ennegai palya, churumuri, huge papads and lip smacking ice-creams. There was also a big crowd in the amusement park area.

The stall of government departments displaying various government programmes and advertisements caught the attention of the people and many were found interacting with the people at the stalls to glean more information on the welfare projects.

Stall owners happy: At last, the stall owners had something to cheer about as they were all sitting forlorn from the day the Dasara Exhibition was inaugurated last month with hardly anyone coming.

Now, with the rain gods being kind and with the tourist inflow, the footfalls increased rapidly in the past one week resulting in the change in mood of the shopkeepers who have invested good money with the hope of earning handsome returns.

4 lakh visit Expo in one month

Nearly four lakh people have visited the Dasara Exhibition since Sept. 22. However, on Oct. 21 and 22 the total number of footfalls was about 51,000 with Saturday (Oct.21) recording 26,000 and Sunday (Oct.22) 25,000.

The gate entry collection stood at nearly Rs. 60 lakh. The entry fee for adults is Rs.20 while for children it is Rs.10, said Karnataka Exhibition Authority CEO N.M. Shashikumar. The Expo concludes on Dec.19.

'Operation Swan' launched for a people-friendly Police

Traffic cops walk up Chamundi Hill; Sensitised on behaving well with public and tourists

Mysuru, Oct. 23 (SPN&BCT)- Over 200 City Traffic Constables walked up the Chamundi Hill yesterday to participate in a session aimed at making them more people-friendly and tourist-friendly. They assembled near Tavarakatte at the foothills at the crack of dawn and began their march to the hilltop.

The session was a part of "Operation Swan" that the city Police have taken up for their welfare. Following a series of complaints that the Traffic Police were behaving rudely with the public, the city's top Police brass decided to sensitise Policemen about behaving courteously with the people.

Addressing the Policemen at the guest house after they visited the Chamundeshwari Temple, DCP (Crime and Traffic) Dr. Vikram V. Amathe said that the city was one of its kind in the country that attracts maximum number of tourists. "It is our responsibility to behave well with the tourists and enhance the reputation of the city," he said.

Psychologist and Administrative Training Institute (ATI) faculty Dr. R.N. Kumar and retired Defence Research Development Organisation (DRDO) Public Relations Officer Jayaprakash Rao held counselling sessions.

Traffic Police personnel participated in the session enthusiastically and after the sessions, they participated in a discussion with senior officers. They shared their opinion freely keeping hierarchies aside.

The interaction session helped them air their grievances and some of them volunteered to give valuable suggestions to achieve the desired objective of making them more people and tourist-friendly.

Police sources said that more such programmes, including health camps and de-addiction camps, will be held in the coming days. Traffic ACP K.N. Madaiah and other officers were present.

Deputy Commissioner of Police (Crime and Traffic) Dr. Vikram V. Amathe and Traffic ACP K.N. Madaiah lead the Traffic Constables to the Hilltop yesterday.

Google Boss takes on NDTV Boss with elan-2

But...it is (Artificial Intelligence) better than human beings at analysing, so here is an AI, impartial, non-political machine; learning comes out of the forecast, the worries are big time," says Prannoy Roy.

Hello, is there someone in India who wants a civil war?

A big time question! Let it be. If it were to be prophetic, so be it. Let us take solace in what the Prince of Denmark Hamlet was bemoaning with these iconic lines:

The time is out of joint — O cursèd spite,

That ever I was born to set it right!

Nay, come, let's go together.

The smart good guy that Pichai is, he wisely parries the political question and enters the dark, quiet tunnel of science and technology that is his forte. Talks about how far away we are from developing AI and how AI is now able to translate languages so that one could talk to any person who does not know your language. He disclosed a product Google launched recently called Google Tez in India. This was possible "because of the digital payment infrastructure, right, that India has done... from here we take it to the rest of the world... So yes, very proud."

Now that Prime Minister Modi gets the credit, it is time for Prannoy Roy to avoid the subject and pack off to China to ask about Chinese browser company etc., etc. to show how Chinese are smarter than Modi's India!

Aadhaar and Privacy

However, soon he returns to Modi by other means to discredit him in another front. Aadhaar. So, Prannoy Roy leads to it with a subterfuge in the question about Privacy which, according to him is a worry. A question of security of your data: Will my privacy be compromised by AI or Aadhaar?

Sundar Pichai assures a worried Prannoy Roy that just as "Your money is safer in the bank," Google builds the most secure system in the world.

Sundar Pichai, Prannoy Roy and Prime Minister Narendra Modi as seen in the interview.

Prannoy Roy doggedly pursued the question: So how important is data security and privacy?

Security is the foundation of everything Google does, was the reply. But a news-hound, determined to get an answer he wants, pursues the prey, giving a hot chase. Apparently Pichai sees through the camouflaged question and outsmarts the tired old news-hound who asks:

"Nobody can hack into it and suddenly...

What suddenly? Here is what Pichai said with his Rama Bana of an answer:

"Security you have to earn it every day... we give security to our users."

After some cherry-picking, Prannoy Roy descends on India, about security. "Will other countries do it, will India do it?" Pichai says that when users demand it must be provided.

Look how nuanced Prannoy Roy's tendentious question or remark is to fix, well who else:

NDTV: If you do not trust it, you won't use that browser.

Let me add a caveat to this. Actually, Prannoy Roy wanted to say Aadhaar instead of browser. Well, I may be wrong!

Sundar Pichai: That's right, browsers or phones or whatever, it is right.

Hip, Hip, Hurrah. The high soaring eagle at last descends hoping to scoop the much rubbished Aadhaar delivered by UPA but embraced with great love by Modi's NDA.

NDTV: We have in India the Aadhaar card, which in my opinion is... wonderful, but there is a lot of worry.

This is how Sundar Pichai responded: "You know I am not fully familiar with it. In such matters you have to generate benefits to its users. For example, when I go to get a driver's licence, I am giving up some privacy. I do it because I see the benefit of it, getting a driver's licence. The good that comes out of it far outweighs the privacy you give up. But you have to put checks and balances to make it work well for you."

Prannoy Roy then says, rather with sarcasm, that one has to worry because some are (read Modi) so smart that you have to worry what their intentions are. When Pichai says "Yes," NDTV brings in EVMs (Electronic Voting Machines) and says wonderful as they are, can't be hacked, yet nobody trusts them, "I mean the losers don't trust them."

"I wish we had EVMs here in USA..." was Pichai's response.

I guess giving interviews to journalists with an agenda is like entering into untested waters that is silent on the surface. This one seemed no different.

However, Sundar Pichai is no novice either. Which is why when Prannoy Roy asked him a question that involved President Trump prefacing it saying that President Trump "Just didn't quite fit in with my view of America," as if it mattered to others and adding "I think Obama was just wonderful." Then, in a pre-emptive move, saying "You are nodding, you agree?"

Sundar Pichai: I am not here to talk politics, but I deeply respect democratic process...

But Prannoy Roy is not the one to give up. Finds devious, subtle (or was it cunning?) ways to bring the world famous technician-scientist-administrator Sundar Pichai to bite the fat smeared bullet (remember 1857?) of a question. But Pichai refused to bite. Prannoy Roy asks a leading question like the defence advocate: India's diversity is in danger.

"No I have faith in the system. It will keep India together for a long time despite diversity," opines Pichai, disappointing the interviewer, nay the interrogator.

Then comes questions about the religion and caste as a snare. Pichai dodges the clever question cleverly.

"Focus on what matters; economic growth, job prosperity, GDP growth... so that people can be better off," was Pichai's wise counsel to a doomsday prophet who again reverts to his pet obsession — Diversity and Social Media.

Poor Pichai was looking like one facing an old, famished man-eater of a tiger confident of getting at its prey. But the young antler with nimble legs gave slip to the salivating predator each time it thought the prey is almost in its clutches.

Towards the end, Prannoy Roy asks for a memorable quote of what happened when he became the CEO.

Sundar Pichai: May be nothing stands out.

I too felt, nothing stood out in this hour-long interview. Like peeling an onion, the Genetically Modified onion for mercy, without tears.

Wife scuttles Jawan's wedding

After he married Asharani, the matter was reported to the Police by Varalakshmi who informed the BSF headquarters. Finding the case fit for punishment, the BSF suspended Shivananju. Later, the suspension was revoked as he reached a compromise with Varalakshmi and the case was withdrawn. Varalakshmi said that both Shwetha and Asharani did not complain against Shivananju despite him cheating them.

Not learning his lessons, Shivananju recently met a resident of Gokulam and promised to marry his daughter (identity withheld in the interest of the woman). He told his prospective bride that he had filed a divorce case against his first wife and the court would soon grant the divorce decree. Conned by his smooth talk, the woman's parents agreed for the marriage that was fixed for Oct. 22 (yesterday) at the Yoganarasimhaswamy Temple.

The bride and the groom's relatives had assembled at the Temple as early as 8 am and the muhurtham was fixed at 10 am. As the wedding progressed, Varalakshmi's brother-in-law saw Shivananju in the groom's chair and he alerted her immediately.

Shivananju had given a false name to book the marriage hall for his wedding. On being sounded by her brother-in-law, Varalakshmi brought in some of her relatives and disrupted the marriage. The Vijayanagar Police were informed who took Shivananju to the Police Station.

Hundreds of guests who had gathered for the wedding were disappointed as the wedding was cancelled. They, however, were offered lunch that was prepared by the temple management. They left the venue after the meal. Vijayanagar Police told SOM that though they will not book a case against Shivananju, they will prepare a dossier in his name and submit it to a court as he had cheated women and was about to get married without obtaining a divorce.

Maharudrabhisheka to Nandi

Members of Chamundi Betta Mettilu Hattuva Balaga (Chamundi Hill Climbing Members Association) performing Abhisheka to Nandi Bull atop Chamundi Hill here this morning using kumkum (left), vibuthi (centre) and turmeric (right). 47 types of Abhisheka was performed beginning at 11 am today.

Mysuru, Oct. 23 (RKB&NNN)- It was a feast to the eyes of hundreds of devotees of Goddess Chamundeshwari, who climbed a few steps down the hill to witness the Abhisheka to the famous Nandi statue atop Chamundi Hill, which was given a fresh look recently by water jet cleaning.

The Abhisheka was performed by the members of the Chamundi Betta Mettalu Hattuva Balaga (Chamundi Hill Climbing Members Association) for the seventh year in a row, here today.

The Abhisheka is performed on the first Monday of Kartika Month every year. There were 47 types of Abhishekas performed. The special puja began early in the morning by offering parayaya and chanting shlokas. The Abhisheka began at 11 am with milk, curds and ghee poured on the Nandi from a raised platform. Abhisheka of dry grapes and dates, kumkum and turmeric, basma (Vibhuti or ash), different types of fruits and flowers followed this.

President of the Balaga Subramanya Raj Urs, speaking to Star of Mysore said, "A few of us have been climbing the Chamundi Hill with 1000 steps regularly for years. We noticed that except a few persons who perform the puja, the beautifully carved Nandi statue had been largely neglected. Hence, we decided to offer Abhisheka on the first Monday of the Kartika month, to the Nandi statue. We started this practise seven years ago and we are continuing it every year." According to Urs the different types of Abhishekas include using Pala-Pushpa (fruits and flowers), Dravya, milk, curd, tender coconut, Panchamrutha, Padya, Argya, Acha Manan, sugar and ghee. Nearly eight to ten priests performed the Abhisheka for two-and-a-half hours that ended at 1.30 pm. Mahadev, Praveen Venkatesh, Srinivas, Nagesh, Sridhar, Vinay, Ekambara and others participated in the Abhisheka.

Kittur Rani Chennamma Jayanti turns a damp squib

Mysuru,Oct.23 (US&PM)- The much-talked-about celebration of Kittur Rani Chennamma Jayanti for the first time by District Administrations turned a damp squib at Kalamandira here this morning with empty chairs symbolising the sanctity of such an event.

Added to that District in-Charge Minister and another Minister and scores of invitees listed in the programme list were absent.

Inevitably Mayor M.J.Ravi Kumar inaugurated the programme. MLA Vasu, ZP President Nayeema Sulthana, Assistant Director of Department of Kannada and Culture Channappa, Additional DC T. Yogesh and others were present.

Malini and troupe presented Sugama Sangeetha. Students of Supreme School, Dattagalli, presented a vociferous oration then voiced by Rani Chennamma against the British.

Speaking on the occasion Majunala Manasa former Chairperson, Karnataka State Women's Commission regretted that harassment of women had continued even today.

She hailed Kittur Rani Chennamma as an epitome of valour and courage and asked women to emulate her.

Special Commando Force

The training for Special Commando Force will be held at CAR Grounds and they will be trained in counter terrorism operations.

It may be recalled here that the city Police had constituted 'Chamundi Commando Force' a few years back during the tenure of S. Parashivamurthy as the City Police Commissioner. At present, the force is not effective and only a few personnel are serving in the force. Chamundi Force would be withdrawn after Special Commando Force comes into force, the Commissioner said.

Vaastu-Feng Shui & Bio-energetics

By S.B.S.Surendran
Accredited Master Feng Shui Consultant

Clearing career obstacles

Feng Shui is about how the space you live and work in affects your mood, energy level and your decisions. There are specific guidelines to generate a healthy energy flow in the architecture as well as in the design and furniture arrangement. In a building, to enhance the positivity of the place and assist in the dreams and aspirations.

The words 'Feng Shui' refer to 'Wind' and 'Water', two forms of energy without which we cannot survive. The practice aims to cultivate the life-force energy of Qi that brings both their life-enhancing properties.

By making the appropriate changes to your physical environment, you shift the energy flow and prime your subconscious to recognise success opportunities.

For a home, primarily ensure that you do not have obstacles in the pathway leading to the main door as it blocks opportunities coming to you. The best Feng Shui in your home will come from having an entranceway that is spacious and free from clutter. This will allow energy to enter your home in an unrestricted manner.

Observe the main entrance of your home and that of your neighbour or opposite home. Entrances to the home should not be located in direct lines with each other. If they are, an easy solution to this is to use a large indoor plant or a screen in order to break up the straight lines.

Office is where you focus your energy in order to be productive and prosperous hence make sure the Feng Shui energy in your office is as strong as possible. Although home is equally important office Feng Shui does have a significant influence on the individual's career prospects. Feng Shui provides a technique that enables one to earn more recognition, invite more opportunity, and attract the eye and support of peers and mentors.

Making changes and enhancements for your career brings new opportunities. Hence when one attempts to make changes the door of new opportunities and more choices opens up. This gives one more control over career and life and aspect of the individual.

Few of the small changes one could attempt in an office environment and home are :

• Try having a few inspirational items or quotes in your office will to help bring positive career energy into your space. These items should not become clutter.

• Place a lamp with metal or glass base at North of the living room. The metal or glass will help strengthen career energy and the light will illuminate your thoughts and aspirations for your career.

• Put a small glass bowl with crystals in North sector of your office and home. For career success Lapis Lazuli, Smoky Quartz, Hematite are good.

• Keep the light on in your office as much as possible or find natural sources of light to help keep your working area bright and cheery. This also attracts energy and career luck.

Prize winners of Science Fest

Mysuru, Oct.23 (KS)- The students of Acharya Vidya Kula, who participated in the Science Fest, conducted by Rotary Brindavan School here recently, have bagged various prizes in the event. India wins Hockey Asia Cup

Malaysia emerges runner-up, Pakistan gets bronze

Dhaka Oct.23 - India's decade long wait to be crowned as champions of Asia finally ended after goals from Ramandeep Singh and Lalit Upadhyay helped them beat Malaysia 2-1 in the summit clash of the Asia Cup Hockey Championship in Dhaka yesterday.

This is India's third ever title in the history of the tournament, which brings them on level terms with Pakistan, who also have three titles and keeps the arch-rivals behind the South Koreans who have won the tournament four times.

India hit the ground running and were looking to dominate from the word go. Led by young Manpreet Singh, they took the lead in as early as the third minute when Ramandeep Singh scored.

Just before halftime it was Lalit Upadhyay, who found himself in the right place to tap it into the back of the net and give his team a 2-0 cushion going into the halftime break.

The third quarter was more balanced with Malaysia fighting back and starting to open up spaces in the Indian defence but their efforts did not reap any fruit.

India though, had opportunities of their own in the third quarter but could not convert for what would have been a contest killing third goal. Malaysia took advantage of the same and came back hard in the fourth quarter scoring a field goal in the 50th minute through Shahril Saabah's stick as the Indian defense failed to close out the Malaysian attackers.

Malaysia kept up the pressure on the Indian defense in the final 10 minutes, but India absorbed all the attacks and showed some resolute defending in the last five minutes to keep their 2-1 lead intact.

Electric pole posing danger in Vidyaranyapuram

An electric pole opposite Vidyaranyapuram Park has live exposed wires. These two wires when joined switches on the street-lights in the area. This pole is just half-a-km away from CESC opposite Sterling Theatre and is on a busy road which leads to St. Thomas School, hardly 50 meters away. So there are chances that children happen to accidentally touch the wires. Is CESC so poor that it cannot afford switches for street-lights ? asks SOM reader E.Venkatesh, who has forwarded this image to the eveninger.

Proper disposal of garbage needed in Yadavagiri

Heaps of industrial waste has been piling up near the corner of Gujarati Samaj Bhavan (Yadavagiri) for months and no effort has been made by MCC to dispose off the waste. The foul smell emanating from the garbage dump has also been an inconvenience to the walkers who pass by that stretch everyday. They try to burn it instead of cleaning it or using a garbage truck to dispose the waste. Burning causes more pollution as non-biodegradable materials like plastic wastes are also present in the heap and poses serious health problems to the residents living nearby, says Manisha M. Chand, a first year Journalism student of St. Joseph's First Grade College, who has sent this picture to SOM and has urged the authorities to act immediately.

Democracy is hijacked by political forces!

Addressing the gathering, writer and member of National Executive Board Devanur Mahadeva said that election was not just a political game but a meaningful process to form a stable and progressive government.

Bumbo
A drink of rum, sugar, water, and nutmeg.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Johnny on the spot

Meaning: Someone ready and available at the time needed.
Origin: The term appears in an article in The New York Sun, April 1896 - "JOHNNY ON THE SPOT A New Phrase Which Has Become Popular in New York". This was widely syndicated in the US at the time and there are many citations in US newspapers from shortly afterwards.
The OED has this citation, from George Ade's, 'Artie', also from 1896: "A Johnny-on-the-spot... was tryin' to keep cases on her."
The name Johnny doesn't here refer to any particular person - it is just being used as a generic male name.
